Flying for a cause that carries a motion picture cameraman "aged in the filming of fast action air scenes for an audience who have never seen the most difficult assignments a pilot might receive," according to Captain E. R. Robinson, the film's adviser. Paramount's new air adventure, "Sky Bride," featuring Shirley Temple, is the story of Alice and Charles Starrett, which is the Princess theme's attraction for the day.

No matter how difficult the stunts of the performing flyers may be, the plot of the camera ship is called upon to exert far more difficult tricks, it is said.

CAPITOL

"Jerry and Joan" starts first novel of Cleo Lucas short story author and Hollywood screenwriter. It has been filmed by Paramount as a caravanning vehicle for Sylvia Sidney and Fredric March.

In Miss Lucas' story, studio executives immediately recognized dramatic qualities in the book. It has led to another picture in development, in which Sylvia Sidney and Fredric March are an amateur couple for their Sunday dramatic values.

The picture is presented under the title, "Jerry and Joan." It is drama of a man and woman in modern young group of impersonations. The novel became one of the best sellers of the year, and the picture closely follows the dramatic episodes of the original story.

Dorothy Arzner, Hollywood's only woman director, has again demonstrated her skill in the direction of the picture.

Jerry and Joan comes to the Capitol theatre for a three-day run. Showing today is the last time is the picture will be shown.

SEARCHING FOR THE "POOL"

With restrictions applied to limit the amount of gasoline recovered from Turner Valley wells, it may strike the casual reader with surprise to learn that new wells are being drilled at depths of over one mile. One of them has reached a depth of over one and one-half miles. That is the deepest hole ever bored in Canadian soil.

The reason behind this continuous drilling in the restricted field is the belief that the wet gas hydrocarbons found in the Valley must have seeped through the earth from some source at a much higher level. Thus far, tarred, or elsewhere. It is in hope of striking this "mother-lead" that the record-well has been drilled and is being drilled to yet greater depths.

Should the crude oil reserves be found, the Turner Valley field would be a major one in reality, what it was long supposed and represented to be, an "oil" field, and not merely a field in which naphtha can be extracted from the wet gas.

THE ONE REMEDY

Seven hundred interested men at a conference in Ottawa demanded $10 per week from the Government as relief money. That would be no more than sufficient to feed, clothe and lodge them on a modest scale.

But to comply with the demand would require $100,000 per week. And the cost of such an amount of assistance would have to be given to the seven hundred thousand idle men in Canada. That would take $7,000,000 per week, or $36,000,000 per year.

No such sum could be collected, in addition to the other expenses of Government, in a radius of 100 miles of the cities where are still at work. The distress is not to be ended by taking from the small returns of those who have jobs money with which to support those who have no jobs.

The practical fact facing the Government of Canada, and governments elsewhere, is to get the men who are idle back at work, producing something which people want and will buy. There is no other permanent relief for the hardships which arise from unemployment.

EL GRAN CHACO AGAIN

Paraguay and Bolivia are calling the powers of their method to arms, to fight for the Gran Chaco. They go through these preliminary gestures periodically, like cans on a garden fence, but back off more or less gracefully after threatening to tear each other to pieces.

The Gran Chaco is the middle of South America. A part of square miles of territory in the middle of South America. A part of it lies in Argentina. The remainder is in large part no man's land, across which Paraguay and Bolivia glare at each other menacingly.

The country is described as partly sandy desert, but mostly flat land with many lakes and swamps, and subject to floods in the rainy season. That is worth fighting for does not appear probable, and neither country would be notably richer for having it at the cost of a war.

There is one other reason for the quarrel, which is in the fact that the territory lies in the heart of South America, not the heart of Europe. That is the first class place for a private war, and if Paraguayans and Bolivians will not try to their own mutual area, there is little chance for a general war between the two frontiers.

With the possible exception of Argentina, which has sent twenty battalions to see that the fighting is done outside its borders, and may possibly end the expedition permanently by sending a force to the frontier, the two countries have massed each other into exhaustion. And that in the long run would perhaps be the more profitable outcome for all parties concerned, including the scattered and harassed residents of El Gran Chaco.

WHAT ALL INTRA-EMPIRE TRADE

In another column there is published a statement showing what were the duties imposed upon certain lines of British manufactured goods coming into Canada in 1930 and what are the duties demanded for the admission of the same goods into Canada today.

The statement shows that what might be done to improve Intra-Empire trade cannot do better than read that schedule with attention. Therein is contained the plan and specifications for destroying intra-Empire trade, and it has been adopted and applied by the Government in Canada in two ways.

The showing is that Canada now demands from two to four times the amount of duty for admitting British goods than it demanded two years ago. This is to be remembered, however, that the statement refers to a number of goods which have already, and only in proportion as it can sell such goods can it buy the products Canada has to export if its people are to live.

It is also to be remembered that during that two year interval Great Britain has imposed a moderate tariff against all but certain specified commodities coming to it from foreign countries, there has not been imposed a fraction of a cent upon Canadian products of any kind imported into Great Britain.

Should anyone doubt that this barricade against British imports into Canada has been effective, he has only to glance at the returns published by the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce. You will find that in May 1930 Canada bought British-made goods to the value of $15,376,000, that in May 1931 they bought British-made goods to the value of $15,107,000, while in May 1932 their purchases of British-made goods amounted to only $15,000.

Two more years of Mr. Bennett's "Canada First" policy, and at the same progressive rate of limitation Great Britain would not sell a dollar's worth of goods in this Dominion.

Obviously, if intra-Empire trade has languished to the point where extraordinary measures are now needed to reverse it, there is no doubt whatever as to one of the important causes of it. That is, the policy of exclusion.

It seems equally clear that since our policy of exclusion has been so signal success in stopping the flow of intra-Empire trade, a relaxation of that restriction would be equally successful in increasing it.

And since Britain like every other country, must pay for what it buys with what it sells, and must buy largely where it sells, the Canadian wheat grower may gather from these figures one reason why Australia and the Argentine have been so successful in their wheat market while Canada had more wheat on hand at the close of the recent shipping season than it had one year ago.

Instead of opening the Economic Conference with a party for the purpose of attacking Canada's practice in Britain our Premier would have been more appropriate occupied in presenting apologies for having helped to strangle the business we formerly did with Britain, and in offering some easement of his trade-killing tariff as a token of reparation for the injury it has done to intra-Empire trade.

To what extent the concessions suggested by Mr. Bennett on Thursday would reverse this ruined trade will be determined by the time it takes him to get it. There is no real or only apparent Intra-Empire trade will undoubtedly be helped if he really proposes to cut down the duties he has against British goods and allow these to come into Canada at sensible prices. But if he only means to do this by increasing the duties on Canadian goods and tariff against foreign goods still higher, there will be little resultant increase in British sales in Canada or in Canada's sales in Britain.

Old Trouble

By Edgar A. Gause

Old Troubles a torment to men and bracde and to a friend to those in trouble and calamity. The sun rises bright when it raps at the door. Will merely come back to a care or two more. And stand up, battle it out to the end and you'll find that Old Troubles is glad if you win.

Old Troubles is ugly and fearsomely made.

He looks like a ghost, and if you are afraid He'll blow you up show you right out of your place.

And throw back your shoulders and stick out your chin! You'll find that old monster is glad if you win.

The fact is Old Troubles is not all that he seems. His job is to try out the dreamer of dreams.

To see what he's made of, and what he can bear.

So he tests him with danger and doubt and despair. But the fellow who thinks that life easy should be. And the first sign of trouble is certain to be.

Old Troubles is the master of men, not their joy.

He's their chance in this world to play what they

The proof of their courage, the test of their worth?

Without him we might be as worms in the earth.

So let's stand when he threatens and see the fight through.

Old Troubles from Old Troubles just what we can do.

The Passing Show

By J. S. Couper

The comic anti-climax that always comes after a tense situation has arrived in Unsworth. Gladcock, a tramp, was arrested. He took Gladcock an hour to regain his liberty. This took place on July 27, 1932, in the country that has about two-thirds of all the gold available gold sterilized in its vaults in the form that is the more gold a country has the more power it will enjoy.

On the same day a Yakima fruit grower tendered a written token of his own because he could not find any cash money. Grabbing up his hat and plating it out of his coat he went to the bank to deposit it. The attendant who had been warned about the danger of bad money, who was holding a silver dollar bill until he had and Gladcock placed his gold in the safe. It took Gladcock an hour to regain his liberty. This took place on July 27, 1932, in the country that has about two-thirds of all the gold available gold sterilized in its vaults in the form that is the more gold a country has the more power it will enjoy.

On the same day, August 1, 1932, Andrew Craig, a tailor of Olympia, Washington, starved to death as a result of the hard times.

He had $6,000 deposited in various Seattle banks but trade was bad and he failed to touch this. He tried living with his income and succeeded too well.

For Craig it must be said he was a Scotchman and robust. He had followed Uncle Sam's example in buying his money instead of using it. A million will see the fall of Craig's business for one who will be able to save principle at work in the huge gold hoarding of Uncle Sam.

People often speak of a curse and a curse is an evil. Sometimes it is, but it is wrong to regard it as a curse, as the lawyers would say. The Bible is liberal as accurate on the point. It says "the love of money is the root of all evil." Not money itself, mark you, but the love of money.

The first assignment I had as a young reporter Toronto many years ago was an inquest on a poor character who had committed suicide. He was a Polish immigrant, a tailor and presser by trade.

It was a time of depression then, and his work had stopped. He had weeks out of work. He failed to make ends meet. He had $1400 saved up in the bank. The idea he could have lived for seven years on $1400 by not spending never occurred to him. But did it occur to him that there could be a lot of pants pressing to be done in hard times?

As a matter of observation there have been quite a few pants and coats pressed in the last quarter of a century. I used to send them to him to press and he would draw out a few dollars and rest for a while. He took poison instead. The jury found he was insane at the time. The verdict was a correct one. None of his pants had made him insane.

At the other extreme of money handling place Herbert Lubin, one-time movie magnate. He is reputed to have lost a diamond ring and a home at Larchmont, aggregating $100,000.00. He was a gambler and lost a clip of a two-bit bill. He lost it without blushing an eyelash. Adversity put a good man on his feet. You have noticed how many good fellows have parted with the auto during the depression. Those who have learned that driving is a pleasure for everybody, have learned for very little expense.

BESTOWING STUFF—TOMATOES. Remove the innermost layer of the number of firm tomatoes from the bunch and do not peel. Mix this scooped out portion with the same amount of chopped mushrooms and a smaller amount of finely chopped celery. Fill containers to overflowing and add this mixture to the water. Place the tomatoes in a shallow dish in a earthenware or cooking glass in moderate oven for about twenty minutes. Longer baking tends to make the tomatoes too mushy. Add a generous amount of salt and pepper. Boil the chipped up chard or beet tops with onions and bacon and add to the sauce. Let the mixture cool and add to the sauce. This all things that one can only obtain in New York being rich.

DRINKING ON CLOTHES—WINE. Please tell me how to prevent cyst formation on my eyelids. I have been having them cut out, but there is some prevention? An examination shows nothing wrong with the vision. I have been told that a positive method of prevention is to wear glasses. Please advise.

ANSWER.—The tendency toward the formation of cysts on the eyelids is probably due to its dependence on the condition of the skin. This can be overcome by a diet regimen, as outlined in my Cleansing Diet Course, which I will be glad to send you on receipt of a large, self-addressed envelope, with a stamp. FINN LEADING IN DECAHTON

OLYMPIC STADIUM, LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—Ahlies Jarvinen of Finland, new world record holder in the Hammer, Berlin, Argentina, won around the world to fly over stars today in the Olympic decathlon championship, each competitor performing nine events first in 11.1 seconds.

The fin was reduced to 14 after Jarvinen's first race, but his outstanding withdrawal being Pat O'Connor of Ireland.

The American record in the broad jump was cracked when Jimmie Dillman, "dawn horse," cleared a 21-foot 10 1/2-inch former record of 22 feet, 8 1/4 inches, was made by Tom of Japan.

The old mark also was broken by the American, Charlie with a jump of 22 feet, 10 1/2 inches.

Dillman improved his record broad jump with a leap of 23 feet, 8 1/4 inches.

Others who also bettered the previous record included Jarvinen, 21 feet, 10 1/2 inches, and Jim Bauch, United States, 21 feet, 9 1/4 inches.

Party Leaves To Rebuild Telegraph
Line In Northland

ATHABASCA, Alta., Aug. 5.— Led by Don Sutherland, a construction party of 15 men left here in two motor trucks yesterday morning.

Thursday, when they will commence two-month construction work, they will start from the line north from mile 73 to mile 130.

A new addition to the service will be a radio link between the dental office which the crew will set up in Pelican to be occupied by Sutherland.

The crew, heavily loaded with telephone splicing, building materials, food, bedding and working utensils settled right to the water edge and were soon off from the landing at Athabasca.

The barges were fastened together and the party started the river by a small motor boat, operated by Frank Braden.

De Valera Given Challenge As To Republic Aims

DUBLIN, Ireland, Aug. 5.—Premier Eamon De Valera was challenged in the Dail today to defend his claim that the Irish Free State wants to set up an Irish republic.

The incident occurred during a debate on his request for an emergency appropriation of £10 million for the Free State's commerce and industry.

Former Minister of Agriculture Paddy Healy, operating on De Valera's proposition, said:

"Let Mr. De Valera tell the Irish people what he wants when he stands for election from the British Commonwealth and then they will know where they are."

Police Court

Frank Heppington and Robert Atkinson, two city youths each paid $2 and costs of the court in lieu of a fine for their offense of causing three traffic violations.

Traffic officers told the court how the two youths had nearly given the police a hard time during a day night. Mounted on motorcycles, the boys were burning up the streets, racing, swerving, and by police, they made a quick switch of sides. Both Heppington and Atkinson, on orders of the magistrate, were held while his partner in speed took up the chase. The police then got a few moments off before taking up the chase, following Atkinson. He led the police on a wild chase through streets, avenues and lanes, but finally gave up when his machine ran out of steam. Both youths were taken into custody on the proviso they were to appear in court next week.

The Police were given a charge of vagrancy and no driver's license.

Wallace Kerr, according to records he has been on the road about four weeks, was remanded for two weeks after being found guilty on a charge of vagrancy.

Paying guilty to a charge of unlawful possession of liquor, Paul Berthelot, 21, of 100th Street, paid $1000 fine and was remanded for one month. Two other charges gave him a minute and indecent exposure.

Nicholas Moor of Fort McMurray was remanded for Supreme Court trial on a charge of breaking and entering.

Berthelot, 21, of 100th Street, was remanded for a month.

The complainant, Berthelot, left his home in the city for the States in 1928, and returning to Canada found that 600 square trees making up his property had been cut from the land. Inquest was held at the hospital awaiting the results of the investigation.

Moor, 21, of 100th Street, was remanded for a month.

The complainant, Berthelot, left his home in the city for the States in 1928, and returning to Canada found that 600 square trees making up his property had been cut from the land. Inquest was held at the hospital awaiting the results of the investigation.

Captured in police Thursday night after a 30-hour chase, Pete Jones, who Wednesday night was invited to the Royal Alberta Museum to inspect the Monksia institution by Major-General J. C. Moore, attempted suicide with a razor, a bullet and a knife.

He had been at the hospital awaiting the results of the investigation.

The police were warned Friday morning when Pete Jones, pleading guilty to a charge of vagrancy, paid $2 and costs or 30 days.

Detective James Reilly, who found Jones when he was found in a tent in a 100th street bootlegging emporium, was held at the hospital awaiting the results of the investigation.

The leader's place and when the girl made her exit with eight quarts of blood.

"I thought that perhaps you had learned your lesson," remarked Major-General Moore.

"But I see that taxes, taxi drivers and prostitutes will have a fatal attraction for you."

Jones was involved in a recent shooting in which he was wounded the past ten months has been confined to hospital with injuries.

Kinsmen Continue Great Health Work at Seba Beach

25 Children, Tuberculosis "Contacts," Have Six Weeks' Outing

Perhaps you might imagine the goldenrod and marigold daisies that line the road to Edmonton Beach were beautiful, and that the lake with its clear waters and sky with bunting clouds were especially delightful; pleasant to live in, but you haven't any conception of how really delightful they are unless you have taken the trail when your car was filled with little children, all of whom were demourished and thought such things were only to be found in very poor districts. That is what a Kinsman who was one of the club members can say about his very underemphasized tuberculosis "contacts" to Edmonton Beach for six weeks.

Through the courtesy of the Edmonton Rotary Club the Kinsmen have arranged for the contacts for children who are in contact with tuberculosis, and are need of rest and change, the extension of their great fight against the disease in the city.

Also the happy family is well established in the Rotary Club meetings. Miss Christine Davidson, Kinsman tuberculosis nurse, in charge and the camp director, has charge of the airy cabins that form the camp, drinking milk that keeps the daily need of calcium at a minimum, offering the most wholesome food, swimming, boating and playing in the sun, and the time passes from four to five hours of fun to get a new lease on life and health, more cheerful and happier to the city.

Mr. Frank Holton and Mr. Calvin Hause are the Kinsmen in charge of the camp, and members of the success.

Sugar that gets lumpy will soften if it is kept in the bread box.

Your Children

By ROBERTS BARTON

A CHANCE TO GIVE CHILDREN AN OUTING

Mrs. Smith called up Mrs. Jones and asked her if she was going to town. "Sorry," said Mrs. Jones, "I have an engagement." I am going to town to buy some new shoes."

"I wish you would call me again," said Mrs. Smith. "I have nothing to do after luncheon and it is such a lovely day. Who are you?"

"I don't know just yet. I'm taking care of your going down Main Street to the WALK-RITE Style Shoppe, the newest, dirtiest children I can find and taking them out to the counter where they can buy a new pair of shoes."

"I bought a gallon of milk and in about half an hour I hope to be on my way."

"Mrs. Smith, I am so glad you are coming. You are likeable for them who are hurt or anything."

"You are taking a terrible chance."

"Oh, I am not kidnapping them, but I am taking them to the WALK-RITE Style Shoppe because the manager hours fix it up; she recommends certain children and gets them to buy what she wants."

"I think you are right, Mrs. Jones. I am not going to tell her. I am not good enough, my dear. It's ten o'clock now, and I want them to have a lotion to wash their hands."

"Wait—wait!" cried Mrs. Smith, holding up her hand. "Don't say 'I could'! I don't want to hear it."

"I AM SO TERRIBLY ORGANIZED."

"I should say you could!" eagerly accepted Mrs. Jones. "If you are free this morning drive around here and go with me. Two cars are available. We can take the dozen passengers. Bring some food along, and don't forget milk and bread."

They went to the county park and strange to say Mrs. Smith had never been there before. Her eyes and nose "I didn't know children could be so ignorant of the world," she said, "but they will wallow. They are as much excited over a cow or a sheep as they are over a six-year-old child."

"I told you you would have the time of your life," nodded Mrs. Jones, "but I am still worried."

"I have had enough for today. You have had enough for today."

"Mrs. Smith had a friend, and she is still worried."

Now several women make regular pilgrimages once or twice a week to the WALK-RITE Style Shoppe. They never see anything but railroad yards, mill-stacks and dirty barrels. They are not interested in the knowledge of a tree or a flower, but they are there, leaning weakly against a fireescape.

Funds this summer will be low for children's outings. The only thing we can do is to take the time of the heavenly two weeks under the sun, but help is at hand.

If you are nothing to do as Mrs. Smith complained, it is an easy task to find something to do as well as those poor little girls who need to discover that the world can be and is a very beautiful place.

To Clean Your Electric Toaster

Here is a hint from Connecticut. This housewife uses a paint brush an inch and a quarter wide to clean the electric toaster with. She dips it in between the delicate wires and cleans them without fear of touching the live wires or the fields. The brush can be easily cleaned and takes up little space in her broom closet.

THE HOUSEWIFE.

The signs for sunning oneself has led to numerous protective measures in order to get the best results. This housewife has found a way to keep the eyes from constant eye strain. Those who have had trouble with eye goggling, so that the eyes are relieved of this strain.

Tomorrow—a Facial.

Large paper bags placed in the receptacles for bags largely simplifies the process of discarding of empty packages. This housewife has an apartment house with a garage attached. Merely close the bag and drop it down the drain.

MAIL ORDER WIFE REMNANT

DEAR MISS DIX—I am thinking of advertising in a matrimonial journal for a wife. What do you think of the plan?

E. Z.

Answer:

All to the bad. Matrimony is full enough of risks without adding another chance to it by getting a mail-order wife that you take sight unseen.

When you are contracting to spend the next 30 or 40 years with a woman, you want to look her carefully before you sign on the dotted line. You want to know her past record, her character and disposition, and tastes and habits, and industry and thrift, and what school of thought she follows, and whether she is religious or not. If any on the knowledge thus gained you must base your guess as to whether you will suit each other.

Even when a man has made many trips with a girl in kindergarten and wrapped her with her through grammar school and guided her through high school, he can never be sure she ever sees her and whom he comes across by her having whence her connection pinned on her left shoulder.

So if a man who has known a girl all her life can't just what he is getting when he picks one out for a wife, what earthly chance has a man who has never seen her, but whom he sees over and over again by her having whence her connection pinned on her left shoulder.

It really doesn't matter what kind of woman a man marries. The thing that is important is a man's own personal taste, and the only way to test congenitally is by the application thereof. A woman by the hour to ascertain whether she is an enterprising woman or a woman who likes to play cards with her to know whether her bridge will tolerate her to sit on the floor and eat his cooking before he can tell whether he is willing to lend his direction to her or not.

And these things cannot be found out in a scheme of correspondence. Correspondence writers are the poorest performers and never even try to make good on the matrimony market. They are the ones who when they take pen in hand and dip grando into the ink, as Barrie says.

Realities, the mere fact that a woman has an income, is a basic truth, but it is not the only factor in itself that she is on the bargain counter and has been passed over by the men in her class.

Some, of course, are women of irreducible character, all size and a yard wide, but who didn't happen to be a pretty pattern, or have the right color, or the right figure, or the right fail to fit the finicky matrimony taste and who seeing they were to be had at a price, were trying to force themselves on the matrimonial market. But many others are women who, while adventurous, are bairns who are adventuresome who rely on the guileless and optimistic qualities of their sex. They believe that they are beautiful and wealthy ladies who are taking care of friends.

So, Mr. E. Z., if you want to pick out your wife from among the women you have known for a long time, you will find a girl who is just as good-looking just as intelligent, just as good-tempered, just as good-spirited in the world, and she will have the added advantage of having been reared in a home where there is no strife, having the same tastes and hobbies. And you will know what you are getting, which you may not have if you marry a stranger.

DOROTHY DIX.

In the old State House in Boston hangs the painting of the arms of Colonel Samuel Shute, which we reproduce below.

The surname, Shute, originated from the Castle of Shute in North Devon, England, and is derived by surname authorities as "a local name."

The family is evidently descended from the Shutes of the time of the Norman Conquest, for we find the name well established in England soon after the conquest.

Colonel Shute was living in Boston, Mass., in 1710, when he is recorded as "Governor and commander-in-chief."

This name is now found in many States, although it is a family that has been scattered throughout the country. Many men and women of the name Shute are prominent in America and are today occupying positions of trust and importance in political and professional realms.

If newspapers are placed over the kitchen floor while you are cooking, they will save you wear and tear on your broom and mop. Gather up the papers and lay them over the floor when your kitchen work is ended.

For caps are to be worn over daytime dresses. The caps are over-the-shoulder length.

So, Mr. E. Z., if you want to pick out your wife from among the women you have known for a long time, you will find a girl who is just as good-looking just as intelligent, just as good-tempered, just as good-spirited in the world, and she will have the added advantage of having been reared in a home where there is no strife, having the same tastes and hobbies. And you will know what you are getting, which you may not have if you marry a stranger.

What New York Is Wearing

By ANNABELLE WORTHINGTON

This little model is exceptionally attractive for all its simplicity. A wee bit of lace, a few ruffles, a tiny belt, a green ribbon and a sprig of flowers are the only trimmings.

The dress is a simple caftan-like thing, caftan being a term used in a red and white batiste.

The belt is a white batiste, adorable, and so soft and so practical. You can imagine a slender girl looking charming in blue and white, and in yellow and white.

Besides a pale blue lime with sheer blue and white stripes, there is a green gingham pattern with a white striped belt and a yellow belt with brown dots with a matching brown or orange gauze belt.

Besides a pale blue lime with sheer blue and white stripes, there is a green gingham pattern with a white striped belt and a yellow belt with brown dots with a matching brown or orange gauze belt.

Style No. 2160 may have bust sizes 9, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Price $1.50 to $2.50. The dress is made of a material with 3/4 yard of 35-inch cotton muslin, which is sufficient to copy this distinctive design.

It is also a gingham pattern for dainty summer wear.

It is a simple caftan-like thing, caftan being a term used in a red and white batiste.

The belt is a white batiste, adorable, and so soft and so practical. You can imagine a slender girl looking charming in blue and white, and in yellow and white.

Besides a pale blue lime with sheer blue and white stripes, there is a green gingham pattern with a white striped belt and a yellow belt with brown dots with a matching brown or orange gauze belt.

Edmonton Summer Fair Shows Surplus Of $23,000

Exhibition Will Have Net Operating Profit In Excess Of $10,000

Profit in Activities This Season Due to Rigid Economics

That this year's operations of the Edmonton Exhibition Association will show a net operating profit of $10,000 at the end of the fiscal year, the statement made Friday by managing director Fred W. Abbott.

The total surplus of over $23,000, without taking into account charges for administration, advertising, promotion, etc., while the spring livestock show has a surplus of over $1200 on a budget of $10,000.

The profit shown in operating activities is due to the most rigid economy in expenditure and to the increase in price of admission, said Mr. Abbott in making the figure public.

The profit this year compares favorably with that of the best year of the association's history. Losses were incurred in 1931, 1932, and 1929, while 1928 showed a surplus of $1200 and 1926 a deficit of $1200.

The total cost in 1931 amounted to $14,000, so that this year's profit of $10,000 indicates a favorable trend in the operations of the two years.

Over 40,000 advance tickets were sold at 50 cents each, resulting in a rate of 20 cents each. Of these 40,000 were dropped at the gate, leaving 10,000 to be sold at 50 cents apiece, or 40,000 at 40 cents apiece, an increase over receipts of $12,000.

Grandstand receipts also showed an increase this year, being $11,000 at against $9,000 last year.

The total gate receipts amounted to $10,956.69 and this was considered a reduction, but it is greater than what was expected.

Receipts from the Midway, on a basis of 23 per cent. of the gross receipts, totalled $47,33, as against $35,000 last year, an increase of 35 per cent. of gross receipts, was $7,000.

Receipts of the provincial government grant the fair was issued one-half of the amount tax charged on the admission of spectators and this amounted to $6,180.67, being a little less than 10 per cent. of the total gate receipts.

The federal grant this year was $1,000.

The fair department this year showed a profit of over $3,000 on expenses, which is a good record for any portion of the gate, grandstand or concession revenue.

Canadian Signals Go Into Camp

Under command of Lieut.-Col. H. C. L. Gillman, V.M.D., the 13th Canadian Divisional Signals will leave at 9 a.m. Sunday to go into camp at Hastings Lake where work will be carried on in the development of tactical schemes.

Equipped with the latest in telephone equipment, the men plan to set up a new radiotelephone set which will eliminate the need for long distance messages for short range communications.

In association with Col. Gillman are Capt. G. E. McLean, Capt. M. F. Browne, M.M. in command of number one and two companies.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Do you think that holding the annual Edmonton Exhibition is justified, especially as a surplus of $10,000 at the end of the fiscal year has been recorded?

The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter found that the surplus question was one of the topics among the residents and with this in view, The Bulletin's reporter asked the question and the results are hereunder appended for the information of our readers.

TOM CALLEN, restaurateur of Jasper Avenue—"I certainly think that holding the exhibition is justified this season. The fact that a surplus was recorded in this year's budget is a good sign."

The profit this year compares favorably with that of the best year of the association's history. Losses were incurred in 1931, 1932, and 1929, while 1928 showed a surplus of $1200 and 1926 a profit of $1200.

For Love Or Money

By H. W. COLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, goes with Mr. Saccarelli to a popular supper room. Mona's mother, Mrs. KITTY, lives on Third avenue, supports her mother, and her husband, Bud, is Steve's brother.

Steve has been mysteriously absent from the office. He has ordered a gown for his mother, and now he appears, well dressed and looking well.

He has come to see the manager of the Club to see BARRY TOWNSEND, the president of the American Legion, and discuss politics. It appears that that is because he has been in town.

Now GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII
"WHY, it's Lottie!" Steve exclaims, looking around. Mona gazes across the room.

It was indeed Lottie. She had not seen her friends, apparently.

Oh, I've been around for a week

The girl's lips quivered. "I'm worried about Bud. Terribly worried."

for she was not looking at them. Little sat at a wall table on a platform, looking down at the polished floor so that she could watch the girls as they went by. Just now she was eating busily and negligently, her companion quite silently.

Her eyes were a bored looking with a rather hard, cold, cold, morose and rather distinguished. Her smile was not pleasant. But looking at this young man before her, she could not help but observe that this young man belonged to the class of people who never die by tradition and precept pleased. He lived to be bored and Little died to be company as well as anyone else.

"Great Heaven! The boy is having fun," thought Mona. "Mr. Saccarelli. What! Mona wasn't really serious. She was still too young to be ready at any moment to join them. Steve's interest in Little rather irritated her, but she did not care for him. He had been making love to Little, but she had been disengaged between him and Little all evening. It was clear that Little was not looking at them.

"Oh, my! My son's going fast!" said Saccarelli. "Just think of that. There must have been a punction in his head, right by a horn."

I felt the air come out of me and on the ground the poor cow lit just gave on him, you tinymites. He said.

"Aw, that was your fault," Duncy cried. "And now you've spalled a dandy ride. Perhaps you'd better

"Breakfast," repeated Steve, his beloved mother had gained a point.

She was very happy here," she went on coolly. "I like this place though. Didn't you?

Little took her coffee cup to her lips again. "Then that's all right," she remarked. "Just no oing on with that boy friend of yours. Meet the boy friend. With a wave of her hand she indicated the man who was looking at her. She can help cheering him. I'm makin' no headway at all and I'm keepin' the boy friend away from me."

Plunking, the young man rose stiffly.

Parker, Mona, Jimmy, Max, Moran, Mr. Saccarelli. We thought Mr. Saccarelli was not really serious. He was still too young to be ready at any moment to join them. Steve's interest in Little rather irritated her, but she did not care for him. He had been making love to Little, but she had been disengaged between him and Little all evening. "I didn't but you did. And how about the guy who took the cup holder?"

"The judges gave it to him though," Little said.

"Then the judges were blind."

"Oh, well!" She smiled and was again lost in the spell of the dance.

Beyond the tables there was a group of young women in light pink gowns. Mona and Steve danced across the tiny floor nearer this way. They were interested and solved itself into a door. It must lead to a private room—the manager's room.

Azona watched curiously the door opened. A dim figure, silhouetted against the light, suddenly appeared in sharp relief for a brief instant. Bud gasped.

The boy did almost furiously across the carpeted space which led to the door. His almost stealthy steps made it plain to observe that he was interested and was a participant in the expensive entertainment.

"Why, why?" Mona cried and started. She stopped short. Her lips were set in a thin line.

"I just want Bud coming through the door," Little said. "With me. It must be the office or something that he wants. Could Bud have been told to come here for something tonight?" Her lips curled. "He's here."

Steve was gently persuaded to dance again for a brief instant. It was Bud.

Things is rather bad but they might be worse," then she was soon twirling would have been round.

The rubber man then cried, "Hey!

You sure man won't don't a man?"

"I'll fix it up so beauty can go right along."

"I have a mate and you shall see that it's real. You won't be."

"I have been found out what crazy things a male can do."

All the animals fall flat in the next story.

was here while the rest of us ride round."

"You jerked your cow's horns too fast, and, naturally, we all set the men began to leap."

"His feet went up very high when he was jolted to pieces, but I still am in my place."

"How grow mad. How he could kick! Wee Scatty thought, managed to stick! No wonder he was smart and had a smile on his face."

"Here here! Those gentle persons had to dance again for a brief instant. It was Bud. Yes, that's the next story."

We'll all be ready for your call and try and catch you if you fall."

"How grow mad. How he could kick! Wee Scatty thought, managed to stick! No wonder he was smart and had a smile on his face."

"Here here! Those gentle persons had to dance again for a brief instant. It was Bud. Yes, that's the next story."

"We'll all be ready for your call and try and catch you if you fall."

"His feet went up very high when he was jolted to pieces, but I still am in my place."
